

All of the routes in these photos have been drawn using my calibrated eyeball looking at poor quality original route descriptions in black and white. I have not climbed most of these routes, so there is every chance I have got it wrong in places. Use it as a guide to the general area where the routes start and go, not as a definitive guide to the exact line to follow. Use it in conjunction with actual route guides to hopefully help you to find the line you want to climb with greater ease.
